INDIAN TEAM TROUNCES WAKE FOREST

Indians Make Good Record On Their Northern Jaunt

Coach Driver and his Indians have returned from their successful Northern trip, during which the nine played five engagements, winning three and dropping two—one of the Quantico two-game series and the Navy game Saturday. After overwhelming Harvard by a 14 to 0 score, the Indians journey to Quantico where they split a two-game series, winning the first by a 9 to 5 count and losing the second by a 10 to 9 score, the latter contest going ten innings. But the Quantico victory cost the Indians the service of Lowe, who broke his leg sliding to second. From Quantico the Indians moved over to Annapolis where on the next day they swamped the St. Johns College nine, 18 to 2. Then came the grand crash in the Navy contest Saturday. The loss of Lowe and his serious condition seemed to pull down the morale of the entire William and Mary team for the Navy game. When the ninth inning ended, the Middies were leading by 18 to 7 score, and the Indians had suffered their worst defeat on the diamond in years. To show that comparative scores mean nothing in baseball, after their defeat at the hands of Coach Driver's nine, Harvard, on the next day, won from the Navy which in turn smothered Harvard's conquerers.

The tour, considered as a whole, is entirely satisfactory to Coach Driver, who is very optimistic with respect to the remaining games of the Indian schedule. The Indians certainly set a scoring record for the

Excursion To College On May 5th

Round Trip From Richmond To Williamsburg, $1.50

The Richmond Extension Division of the College of William and Mary, in co-operation with the Farmville Alumnae Association, will conduct an excursion to the College on May 5th, leaving Richmond at 9:00 A. M., and returning from Williamsburg at 5:45 P. M. The railroad fare will be $1.50 round trip.

Side trips will be arranged to Jamestown and Yorktown in automobiles which will be in readiness in the depot when the train arrives in Williamsburg.

Students who desire to have their friends visit them on this excursion may obtain tickets at the reduced rate from Mr. H. L. Bridges, Registrar, or Miss Bessie P. Taylor in Jefferson Hall.

Professor Zehmer Resigns As Associate Professor Of Education

Professor George Baskerville Zehmer, M. A., has resigned as Associate Professor of Education to become Associate Director of University Extension and Director of Extension Teaching at the University of North Carolina. His resignation has been accepted by the Board of Visitors to take effect August 1, at which time Professor Zehmer will begin his active duties at the University.

Professor Zehmer was a student at the College of William and Mary several years ago, and was graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Arts with the class of 1916.

He was for one year Assistant Superintendent of Schools for Dinwiddie County, after which he attended Columbia University for two terms, receiving his Master of Arts degree in 1921. He served for two years as Superintendent of Schools of Dinwiddie County, which position he resigned to continue his work at Columbia. He came to William and Mary in the fall of 1921 as Associate Professor of Education.

Mr. Zehmer, during his student days at William and Mary, was active in many of the phases of college life. He was a member of the varsity baseball and basketball teams, and of the college quartet. He is a member of the Theta Delta Chi and of the Phi Beta Kappa Fraternities.

John Powell Here On May 11

John Powell, the eminent American pianist, a native of Richmond, Va., and a graduate of the University of Virginia, will come to William and Mary on the night of Friday, May 11, for a piano recital.

Mr. Powell agreed to come to Williamsburg at a greatly reduced price owing to his interest in the College; and as the proceeds from the concert will go to the gymnasium fund, it is believed that this last minute drive will swell appreciably the sum to be raised. General admission will be only $1.00, so that aside from aiding in the gymnasium campaign, the students have an unparalleled opportunity to hear a great artist whose concert elsewhere would cost $5.00 or more.

Much interest is being stimulated in the recital, especially among the townspeople, by the wives of the members of the faculty, who are asked to act as patronesses of the concert.

The recital will probably be held in Jefferson Hall, and admission will be by ticket only.

Mrs. Becker, Of New York Post Pleases Students

Mrs. May Lamberton Becker, literary editor of the New York Evening Post, in her talk in the chapel last Monday evening, gave a delightfully interesting treatment of her subject: "Folk Plays in America and the Hope of a Native Drama."

Her active interest in the study of folklore has given her a keen insight in the development of community recreation, particularly in the rural districts.

That there is a need for stimulating interest in community recreation among the people of isolated districts and for providing a basis for such endeavor among the people themselves was forcefully brought out by Mrs. Becker.

She believes that in every group there are a great number of people who have an inert desire to find expression for their cultural and dramatic instincts and that best means of developing these instincts is in the organization and the assisting of local amateur dramatic companies among such groups.

To illustrate her point, Mrs. Becker drew an interesting comparison of the results of the efforts of companies of players under the guidance of the universities of the respective States in a barnstorming tour in North Dakota and North Carolina. Under the names of the North Dakota Playmakers' Association and the North Carolina Playmakers' Association these companies have accomplished a praiseworthy work in studying the people of the two States, their habits, their legends, traditions, superstitions, and tastes.

Copy Of Magna Carta Gift Of Hon. R. M. Hughes

A facsimile copy of the Magna Carta was recently presented to the Law Library of the College by the Hon. Robert M. Hughes, of Norfolk. This reproduction was prepared by the Bureau of Military and Civic Achievement, of Washington, and presented to Mr. Hughes, who, in turn, stood the expense of framing and passing the gift on to the Law Library. The Bureau is engaged in the work of preparing facsimile copies of famous legal documents and presenting them to various colleges and schools throughout the country.

This replica of Magna Carta is a handsome affair. It is printed on parchment in original colors, and bears the seals and names of the nobles who signed the famous document.

William and Mary Gets Weird Game

Wake Forest Presents Clouting Bunch But Errors Mar Contest—Score 14 to 9

In an old time slugfest which was somewhat marred by the frequent errors of both nines, William and Mary humbled Wake Forest here today by a 14 to 9 score. Seven doubles, one triple and a home run was the total extra base blows for the contest which despite the sporadic bits of fielding, was interesting from start to finish. Pools, Wake Forest center fielder, who is being sought by several major leagues, led the hitting for the game, with five singles in five trips to the plate.

The batting feature for the Indians was John Todd's circuit clout over left center wall in the fourth, counting two runners already on the path. The drive which cleared the fence by more than twenty yards, was one of the hardest hit balls seen here this season. The brightest star in the erratic contest was Horace Hicks, of Richmond, who accepted fifteen chances with but one bobble, contributing three runs, two hits, one a double, and two stolen bases in five times to bat. Several of Hicks' chances were exceptionally hard ones, coming at times when slow fielding or miscues would have resulted in additional runs for the visitors. Capt. Cooke, the Indians' first sacker, completed his thirteenth game today without a scratch in the error column.

The Baptists counted once in the first and four times in the fourth on two hits and three errors, knotting the total at five all. The Indians scored five times in the second half on five hits and a pass. With the score knotted the Indians in their half of the fourth pushed over six counts with the assistance of four hits, one being Todd's circuit drive; a sacrifice and two free gifts by the Baptist infielders. After the fourth, Coach Driver's men were never in danger until the ninth, when Wake Forest rallied and scored four times on four hits. At this point fast fielding by Hicks and Denton off hard hit ground balls retired the side. Wake Forest presented the heaviest hitting outfit that has visited Cary Field this season.

Williamsburg Branch Of American Association of University Women Organized

The Williamsburg Branch of the American Association of University Women was organized at the home of Miss Thelma Brown on Saturday afternoon. The present membership consists of eleven national members, who are graduates of colleges or universities which are recognized by the national organization, and fifteen associate members who are either graduates of non-recognized colleges, or have had one, two, or three years in a standard college.

Fourteen colleges and universities are represented in the Williamsburg branch, most of them Northern and Western institutions. The largest number from any one college is from Randolph-Macon Woman's College, and the next largest from William and Mary.

Graduates of William and Mary are eligible to associate membership only, not because this is not a standard college, academically speaking, but because women are not given equal salaries with men on the faculty, and because there is no Dean of Women.

Professor Williams Host To Society

Eta Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa was the guest on Friday night, April 20, of Professor A. G. Williams at his home on Scotland Street.

Those attending from the Circle were Professor R. L. Morton, T. H. Mawson, B. G. Williams, E. B. Moffitt, A. J. Winder, J. S. Jenkins, C. B. Quaintance, Ted Dalton, Geo. A. Downing and J. S. Smith.

Several matters pertaining to the welfare of the College and of the local Circle of the Fraternity were discussed, and the next meeting was set for Wednesday, May 2, at which time new members will be elected on the basis of prominence or leadership in the five branches of student activities, considered by the Fraternity; namely, scholarship, athletics, forensic, publications, and social.

J. Lesslie Hall Literary Society Program

Those students who attended the meeting of the J. Lesslie Hall Literary Society last Saturday night are deeply indebted to the program chairman and her committee for presenting such a delightful and thoroughly enjoyable series of dances.

With a woodland scene for a background and with candles for footlights, Douglas Humphreys gave a nature dance, The Death of the Rose, with much grace and beauty; in contrast to this dance, Virginia Chapman Margaret Hundley, Thomas Bland and Francis Gibbons, gave a Finnish Folk Dance, and showed advantageously the training which they had received from Miss Wales; Mildred Vaiden charmed the audience by the complete poise with which she danced to the sweet strains of the idyllic Glow-Worm; and, last but not least, Edith Stone gave such a clever impersonation of a negro clogger that she was encored again and again.

Tomorrow's program is entitled Short Stories.

Sigma Upsilon Initiates Larry Green

Gordon-Hope Chapter of Sigma Upsilon Literary Fraternity, at its meeting on Friday night, April 20, initiated Mr. Larry Green into its ranks. Mr. Green has been one of the steady contributors to the Literary Magazine; he is also Alumni Editor of the Flat Hat, as well as Editor-in-Chief-elect for next year.

The fraternity met again last night as the guests of Mr. E. B. Moffitt at the Sigma Delta Tau House on the Richmond Road, at which meeting Mr. Green read a paper prepared by him as part of the initiation ceremony. Cigars and refreshments were also served.

Fraternity Pledges

The Eta Alpha Chapter of the Yezdikhast Fraternity announces the initiation of W. Frank Marston, Jr., Paul McConnell, Jr., and F. W. Cox; and the pledging of S. P. Hoyle.

Tennis Tournament Starts Monday

Those who saw the "slow" motion picture demonstration of the approved methods of serving and stroking tennis balls by Tilden and other tennis champions in the chapel have probably already given their best efforts to making similar attempts on the courts. However, such efforts should not be wasted but should be put to good use in the annual spring tennis tournament which starts Monday. Those who have not yet registered but still wish to do so may give their names either to Mr. Wilshin or they may be placed in Professor Counselman's box not later than Saturday at five o'clock. There will be two tournaments for the college championship: men's singles and ladies' singles. In order to stimulate interest and competition, Professor Counselman has suggested that the men's singles be divided into two divisions, the members of the college tennis enthusiasts competing among themselves for the amateur championship. The winners of each division will then play each other for the college championship. The college champion will have his name engraved on the silver cup which is in the library. As an added inducement, Professor Counselman has generously offered to present to the winners of both the men's and the ladies' singles tournaments one dozen tennis balls as first prize and one-half dozen tennis balls as second prize.

Track Team Off To Lexington

The William and Mary track team left this morning with Coach Tucker Jones for Lexington, where they will engage the V. M. I. cadets tomorrow in track and field events.

Coach Jones is taking along a squad of thirteen men, with whom he expects to better even the good showing made by the Indians last year when the Cadets took the local squad into camp at the Fair Grounds track.

The Cadet cinder path artists have already vanquished the strong Maryland team by a top-heavy score, while William and Mary in its only inter-collegiate meet to date was defeated by Penn State.

Comparative records, while deceptive and untrustworthy, furnish the only advance dope available. These would seem to indicate that the Indians have their best chance in the weight events. Likewise in the high jump and the javelin William and Mary stands an admirable chance of swelling its score materially.

The following men are making the trip:

Hooff, Rangeley, Daly, Moore, Moss, Young, Irwin, Charles, Wells, Rew, Hancock, Wesson, Van Laer, Coach Jones, Ted Dalton, Manager.

Indians Pile Up Runs Against St. Johns

Drubbing Handed Cadets On Own Grounds By William and Mary

William and Mary gave St. Johns a drubbing to the tune of 18 to 2. St. Johns scored only in the last inning, when singles by Lenzer and Bounds, Chandler's error, a sacrifice fly and a hit batsman yielded two runs. The visitors put up a brilliant game in

OTTO LOWE, INDIANS' STAR THIRD SACKER, BREAKS LEG

The first Quantico game was one of the most costly victories an Indian nine ever won, for it cost us the services of Otto Lowe, one of the cleverest infielders who ever held down the hot corner. His absence from the line-up and the loss of the pep and confidence which he instills in his team mates was responsible in no small way for the bad drubbing that the Navy gave us Saturday. We had been prone to take old "Ot" too much for granted, and until now we never adequately realized his true importance to the team. We are certainly happy to hear that his injury will not cause any permanent hurt to Lowe. He has been receiving the best of treatment at Quantico Marine Hospital that Gen. Butler's medical department could administer and the Quantico surgeons top their profession. The team and Lowe have nothing but the most grateful thanks for the treatment that he received at Quantico.

* * * * *

NORTHERN TRIP A SUCCESS

Fifty-seven runs and a considerably larger number of hits in the five-game trip the Indians took last week is a record that no other college team has equalled this season. The students and alumni should be very proud of their baseball team and coach.

The Navy blow was an incident that happens to every team during a season. Every team has it, matters not how good it be, has its off days and it is better that ours should come against the Navy than against Wake Forest or the Spiders. Whoever heard of so many extra base hits as the Indians made on the Northern trip—8 home runs, 6 triples and 8 doubles!

* * * * *

SPIDERS GOING STRONG ALSO

Coach Dobson and his nine are to be congratulated on winning from W. and L. College, and the University of Virginia. Incidentally, the Spiders took Virginia into camp by a larger score than did the Indians. Richmond scored 19 points to Virginia's 6. Now with Lowe lost for the rest of the season and the Spiders hitting their proper stride, whatever edge the Indians may have merited by its victory over Harvard and others, seems to be vanishing like a snow ball under the summer sun. A great battle should ensue when the Indians and Spiders meet in Richmond Monday.

COACH TASKER NEEDS MORE VARSITY MEN

While more than thirty candidates have answered Coach Tasker's call for spring football men, several of the letter men have not yet come out. Some of the Varsity men are playing on the baseball and track teams and cannot be expected to come out for football but there are several letter men who are not out for baseball, track, or football. Why do they refrain from coming out? They could get a lot of valuable information from the spring work and, in passing, on some of the new men who, from the way they are shaping up, will give the Varsity men a fight for their positions next fall. If these Varsity men who are not coming out have no better excuse than that they think they are already good enough to make the team may get a surprise package next fall.

MONROE DAY

Tomorrow we pay homage to one of our famous alumni, James Monroe, whose birthday we shall celebrate with exercises in keeping with the custom of the College on such occasion. Little do we realize how great is our past, yet on the past we must lay our foundation for a greater future, by attempting to walk in the footsteps of those illustrious alumni who made the past history of our Alma Mater glorious and renowned. Not unmindful of our past history and never forgetful of our famous alumni, yet we trust that the dawn of a new day is here, as hope still holds out she will weave in the blue web of our future, when other illustrious alumni of this College will have their praises sung as we sing those of our past presidents, governors, senators, and statesmen. By following the principles promulgated by our great alumnus, whose name we particularly hold sacred at this time, we can build better than we know, and we shall have ideals and principles which will be guides for our lives.

According to a statement of the Treasurer of the College, tendered to the Business Manager of The Flat Hat, the allotted funds for the publication of this weekly, after paying a deficit of $400 incurred during the past two years, have been exhausted. The proceeds derived from advertisements will meet the small deficit to date and the cost of publishing three more issues of The Flat Hat, which will appear on the following dates:

Thursday, May 10; Friday, May 18; Saturday, May 26.

Blind Student Is Winner of Honors

A blind student has surpassed all previous achievements in the way of winning honors at the Northwestern University Law School.

George H. Weinmen, of Chicago, sightless since early babyhood, has won the Rufus H. Sage scholarship for 1922-1923, the only scholarship at the disposal of the law school faculty; has captured the Charles A. Koepke prize for the same college year, a prize awarded annually to the student who has demonstrated to the satisfaction of the faculty his promise of future usefulness, and finally has been placed on the "honor roll" of the law school for excellence in scholarship.

"At no prior time in the history of the law school have these honors been bestowed upon the same individual in one year," Dean John H. Wigmore, of the school, announces.

Weinmen is now in his junior year, and attributes his success to his mother. He says: "Like Abraham Lincoln, I most sincerely believe that 'What ever I am, or ever hope to be, I owe to my darling mother.'

"She reads all my work—law books, law lessons and technical legal statements—for me and I brief the cases just as others students do. I have developed a fairly good memory, and as a rule, am able to get the substance of a legal article after one reading. In short, my mother performs the functions of eyesight for me."

Funereal Marriage

Marriage in a cemetery is the latest from Los Angeles. The bridegroom, it is stated, chose a burial ground for nuptial rites because he wished to emphasize the solemnity of the occasion. This is taking time by the forelock. While marriage often proves serious and sometimes tragic, it is customary to give it the benefit of the doubt and to list it as a joyful affair.

The same sentiment that prompted the choice of a cemetery for a wedding would substitute Chopin's funeral march for the wedding march from "Lohengrin," mourning for a bridal veil and tolling for a merrily ringing bell.

A man may go to his own funeral via marriage, but not often does one realize it at the time, and even less often is the supposedly happy bridegroom disposed to admit the funereal solemnity of his venture. Perhaps the Los Angeles benedict figured that a solemn beginning would make for a happy ending.

Statistics Show Improvement by Classes Of Winter Quarter

In average number of hours failed by each student, the Freshman Class shows an average of 3.13 hours; the Sophomore Class 1.18 hours; the Junior Class 1.1 hours, and the Senior Class .88 hours.

In number of hours of different grades, the classes show the following totals: Senior Class 528 A hours, 207 B hours, and 135 C hours; Junior Class 709 A hours, 450 B hours, and 353 C hours; Sophomore Class 976 A hours, 1045 B hours, 810 C hours, and the Freshman Class 1128 A hours, 1509 B hours, and 1760 C hours. INDIANS PILE UP RUNS AGAINST ST. JOHNS the field, Hicks, at shortstop, being the particular star.

While St. Johns made seven errors, helping the run getting of the visitors, they played a worse game than the figure indicates, many balls dropping between players who should have handled them.

Indians Keep Up Winning Streak

William and Mary Downs Quantico Marines By Count Of 9 To 5 In Loose Game

William and Mary, conquerors of Harvard and Amherst, continued their winning streak when they humbled the crack Quantico marine team by the score of 9 to 5 mainly through hard and timely hitting.

Coach Jimmy Driver sent Richmond, a new hurler, to the mound and, although he was touched for five hits and five runs, he worked out a creditable game.

Marines Turn Tables On William and Mary

The Quantico Marines defeated the William and Mary College team at Quantico in an extra-inning game. The features of the game were the exceptionally good playing of Somers and Delorem and the three-base hit of Watson and Miller's home run in the tenth. Middies Trounce William and Mary

Indian Hurlers Hit Hard By the Naval Academy Batters

The Midshipmen batted like terrors, winning from William and Mary by 18 to 7. The game completed a triangle of victories and defeats, William and Mary having defeated Harvard 14 to 0, while that team conquered the Midshipmen by 7 to 4.

With the score 4 to 0 against them, the visitors tied the score by clean hitting in the fourth and took the lead the next session, when Saffelle drove the ball to deep right for the circuit. In the sixth, however, the Midshipmen scored eight times on seven clean hits and errors by the visiting players.

Mrs. K. J. Hoke Entertains Guests

Mrs. K. J. Hoke was the hostess Monday night at an informal reception tendered at her home on Jamestown Road in honor of her house guest, Mrs. Davis, and Mrs. May Becker, of the New York Evening Post, who lectured at the College on that evening. The affair was very informal, and only a few guests were present, including a few members of the faculty and their wives, and Mrs. W. T. Hodges and Mrs. Naylor, of Norfolk.

Students of 21 nationalities from 130 different colleges and universities in the United States and Canada participated in the International Essay Contest of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association in the fall term. First place and a prize of $300.00 were won by Frank H. Nelson, of the University of Chicago, and second honors and $200 went to Jogendra N. Sahni, of the University of Michigan. The I. P. A. announces a similar contest for the spring term with $1,000.00 in cash prizes.

Wanderlust No Trait In These Families

The Larruhath family, of Asson, a village in the Pyrenees, has tilled the same land for more than nine centuries.

The Buisson family, of Slideo, in Aveyron, has owned the farm it now lives on since the year 1123.

Thirty generations of the family of Foux, members of which have held high office in France under the throne, have cultivated vineyards in the neighborhood of Rodez, also in Aveyron.

These facts, believed to constitute records, were brought out as a result of an offer from the Ministry of Agriculture to award prizes to the families remaining longest on the same farms.

A claim by a family named Ulricq, who have a farm near Honfleur, that their farm was presented to an ancestor by William the Conqueror before he set sail from Honfleur for Hastings, is being investigated. Documents nearly a thousand years old are said to be involved.

Miss Elizabeth Rowe Wins Fellowship In Simmons College

Miss Elizabeth Rowe, of Gloucester County, B. A. of William and Mary College, who graduated from the "Richmond School of Social Work and Public Health" last year, was the first Southern girl to be awarded a research fellowship in Simmons College, Boston. She has made such an excellent record in Boston that she has paved the way for the appointment of other Southern women, according to a letter just received by Dr. H. H. Hibbs, Jr., Director of the "Richmond School of Social Work and Public Health," from Miss Lucille Eaves, head of the Woman's Educational and Industrial Union in Boston, who is urging other graduates of the School to apply for fellowships next year.

Three paid fellowships in social-economic research are given each year to women who wish thorough training in research work, which carry a stipend of five hundred dollars each. Clerical assistance, traveling expenses and equipment are also furnished to those making the investigations.

The Educational and Industrial

Union is also affiliated with Wellesley College and the work may be counted as part of the requirements for a master's degree.

Miss Eaves says in her letter: "At present Miss Rowe is in Brattleboro, Vermont, doing field work for a study of the conditions under which married women work in a New England factory town, and because of the exceptionally interesting character of the work, I am sure Miss Rowe will produce a helpful and interesting report."

Miss Rowe has written Dr. Hibbs: "I am now studying particularly how outside employment affects the home duties of married women, which is most interesting, but my deepest interest lies in rural problems, with which I am better acquainted than anything else, and I intend to come back to my State to work."

In December and January Miss Rowe was sent from Boston to make a social survey of her home county, Gloucester. This report, which has been much complimented by authorities in Boston, will be available for distribution in a few weeks.

Appreciation

Dear Madam Lochard:

No doubt you have thought that I have forgotten all about you and France. No, my dear Madam, far be it from such, for so very often I think of you and of the kindness you showed to me while I was so far away from my home and loved ones. There are many, many times when I sit in the quiet of my study and go back over many of those days when everything was so unreal, when the cruel war had everything in its throes. With these thoughts comes that admiration of the French populace, how so many took us into their homes and bestowed the greatest of kindness upon all. We who went over and saw this sacrifice for the sake of the native land did not know what it really called forth from each individual until the war was over and the world began to settle down; then, and then only did we see and realize. Thus Madam, out of the depths of my heart, I thank God for seeing and knowing what true love for country can mean to one.

Now, as the stream of memory flows by these six years after the noise and the din of battle has ceased, I pluck from this stream that which hovers closest to my heart. I shall picture this memory to the best of my ability in words which can, I know, never make it real to you, as it was to me. It was a night, cold and sleeting, and yet the boys must stay on duty. I was on duty this night, yes, the hours seemed days through the bitter cold. Well, do I remember that I came off duty about three o'clock in the morning. I went to the stable feed and put a blanket on my horse, then came to my room; I was so cold, chilled to the very bone. I opened the door and what met my gaze was wonderful; there was a big open fire, a pot of hot coffee steaming on the hearth and you, my Dear Madam, sat before this fire mending parts of my uniform so that I might wear them and be warm. This memory is so precious to me because of its great significance. Here you were trying to take the place of a boy's mother, knowing how she would have him cared for. You were putting forth all that was within your power to try and let him see that France wanted to be his mother as he was giving himself for France.

I speak of this especially now because of the great controversies of the payment of War Debts are in the foreground of international politics today. I know, Madam, and I feel that I am expressing the sentiment of the average American who went abroad into the great struggle, that to all the men who felt this touch of the motherly hand of France, that to them as well as to me, France has paid her debt in full. I would even say that the interest has been compounded.

In closing, I wish to say, Madam, that I want you and all the mothers of France to know that we, who felt the iron hand of war, and at the same time the gentle mother touch, that came to us out of the chaos and the fiendishness of this Great War, know that all is paid.

There are eight wonders in this world,
Now please don't think me rash,
But the other extra wonder
Is the good old mess-hall hash.
Its origin is a mystery,
What's in it no one knows.
It seems to be composed of shoes and bits of rubber hose,
Herein is also found a dash
Of bottles broken up
And in it, too, is skin that belonged
To a speckled, pug-nosed pup.
Bits of string and leather straps,
Rags and sour mash,
They all go in to make a dish
Of good old mess-hall hash.

ARE YOU AMONG THEM?

Audacity and daring with a brief
bathing suit
Make a combination which is wonderfully cute;
Though blase and coquettish, uncertain though wild,
Simply prove in the end she's yet but a child.

But somehow those left behind from the ball
Are willing to say most anything at all,
Whether friend at her face or cousins
or nieces,
Not often do we find one they don't pick to pieces.

Why make remarks about the other's good name,
Which leads not to fortune and never to fame?
Throw a cloak over the sins they may have shown,
For possibly a circus tent would not cover your own.

There was a young fellow so dumb,
That his last name truly was "Gum."
He'd sit down all nite,
With a couple in site,
And solemnly suck on his thumb.

There was a fair queen of the Nile
Who was built with all kinds of style.
'Cause she knew her stuff,
But perished because of her gile.
She treated "em ruff,"

There was a young lady from Penn,
Who always ran after the men;
Like Helen of Troy,
She was very coy
And dragged 'em all off to her den.

University Professor Spanked for Speak- ing Lightly of Joan

French People Appreciate Jack London's Books and Several Will be Translated and Published at Once — Would Excuse Fathers From Service in The Army

"They can make a lot of noise and break a lot of furniture, but there is no use of their trying the fascisti act," was the boulevard comment when the king's camelots began their raid on the radical newspaper offices the other day after the killing of their leader, Marus Plateau, who was shot by a woman anarchist.

The royalist agitators of Paris took the name "king's camelots" when Leon Daudet's newspaper L'Action Francaise, first appeared, and volunteers were called for to sell it on the streets. A large number of the sons of aristocratic families responded and were promptly arrested by the police when they began to yell the name of their paper. The paris police regulations require a license to sell anything on the streets and the young royalists were obliged to go through the same formalities as the other "camelots" or vendors of vegetables and postcards. Thus they decided to take the name "king's camelots" for their organization.

Among their exploits was an invasion of the Sorbonne University, where they seized Professor Thalamas and spanked him for speaking lightly of Joan of Arc. They also broke up a performance of Henry Bernstein's play at the State theatre, the comedy Francaise, because M. Bernstein is a Jew and because they alleged, he had dodged military service during the war.

Their pilgrimages to the various statues of Joan of Arc throughout Paris used to bring them in collision with the police, and once the extreme socialists formed a body of "young socialists" especially to combat the camelots. Then the real battles occurred in the streets and filled the drug stores with wounded, while the police stations were crowded with arrested combatants of both sides.

five game trip, during which they piled up 57 scores to their opponents' 34. As for extra base hits, the road record of the Indian sluggers includes 8 home runs.

Coach Driver is pushing his charges here in preparation for the first game of the Richmond University series which takes place in Richmond on April 30th.

Scrap Chandler, left fielder, has been moved to the infield by Coach Driver to take Otto Lowe's place at the third base. Chandler, who is playing in the infield for the first time in his baseball career, has made a very favorable impression by his work in the past two games. Driver believes that with a little practice Chandler will make a good third sacker.

The squad has shown pep and form this week in practice. The good baseball weather and improved team work give splendid indications of the return of the playing that was exhibited against Harvard. The officials are under no illusion as to the strength of the Spider nine and the cream of the William and Mary pitching staff is certain to be started on the mound.
